Annual Missions Emphasis

Our annual missions emphasis begins today in the morning service when we will view “Noah’s Flood and the Earth’s Age: Crucial Apologetics for Reaching Today’s Global Culture”, a DVD produced by Answers in Genesis. In the evening service Dr. Downey will bring a message related both to missions and his current morning series on prayer: “Praying for Our Missionaries.”

Next Sunday, November 24, is our annual Faith Promise Sunday. All members and adherents of Temple Baptist Church are encouraged to turn in promise cards reflecting how much you are trusting the Lord to allow you to give to our missions program for the coming year. We trust you are making this a matter of prayer for the Lord’s direction. Rev. John Hutcheson, Field Director for Frontline Missions International, will report on their work and bring the morning message.

Heads Up!

Many of us will want to attend the annual FREE Christmas Concert by the Athens Symphony Orchestra at the Classic Center on Saturday, December 7. If you want to go will need a ticket, and Monday, November 25, is the only day on which tickets will be available. Distribution will begin at the Classic Center box office at 10:00 a.m., but you should be in line at least a half-hour early to be sure to get tickets.
